

Learning Activity:

LEARNING OBJECTIVES	EXPANDED CONTENT OUTLINE
A new perspective in statistical methods to analyze metabolic syndrome and health-related quality of life.	Using the Poisson regression analysis was used for the metabolic syndrome, the Tobit regression to analyze health-related quality of life.
Factors that impact on the health related quality of life among postmenopausal women with metabolic syndrome	Of five components, factors had a great effect on the HRQOL are high blood pressure and abdominal obesity.
The critical point that we should give interventions to postmenopausal women	The age group increased prevalence of metabolic syndrome in postmenopausal most significant was the 50-54 age group.