Learning Activity:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>LEARNING OBJECTIVES</th>
<th>EXPANDED CONTENT OUTLINE</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Describe the problem of adolescent suicide and the importance of understanding what is important to the parents whose child has made a non-lethal suicide attempt.</td>
<td>A power point presentation will be presented to audience describing the problem of adolescent suicide in the United States and why we need to understand the problem from the parent's perspective.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Identify important questions to utilize in uncovering issues most important to parents whose child has made a non-lethal suicide attempt.</td>
<td>The audience will be presented with the questions asked of mental health providers and their responses as to what is most important to parents after their child has made a non-lethal suicide attempt.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Compare and contrast the perspectives of adolescent mental health experts in a suburban and rural mental health setting related to what is important to parents whose child has made a non-lethal suicide attempt.</td>
<td>The results of two research studies seeking to understand what is most important to parents after a child's non-lethal suicide attempt from the provider view will be compared and contrasted.</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>