

Learning Activity:

LEARNING OBJECTIVES	EXPANDED CONTENT OUTLINE
The learner will able to explain the relationship between activities daily living and depression among community-dwelling older adults.	The size of relationship between activities daily living and depressive symptom is significantly negatively moderate.
The learner will able to compare the strength of effect size according to population and study characteristics.	The strength of the effect size is moderated by sample residence type.