

Learning Activity:

LEARNING OBJECTIVES	EXPANDED CONTENT OUTLINE
The learner will be able to describe the commencement process in disseminating and implementing an efficacious and effective school-based health education and counseling program for diverse older school age students with asthma and members of their social networks.	Describe the clinical issue and specific aims of the dissemination and implementation study, the integrated theoretical framework guiding the study, the school-based academic asthma health education and counseling program targeted, and the commencement activities completed in preparation for launching the study.
The learner will be able to discuss the theory- and evidence-based methods and measures selected for dissemination and implementation of a school-based asthma health education and counseling program for diverse older school age students with asthma and members of their social networks.	Describe the hybrid, blended, type III implementation design and mixed methods approach to evaluate dissemination and implementation of the program using reliable and valid quantitative instruments and pragmatic open-ended qualitative surveys.