Aligning an Online Educational Activity With QSEN Competencies to Bridge the Leadership Practice Gap

Sarah E. Abel, MSN, RN, CEN
Education Department, Sigma Theta Tau International Honor Society of Nursing, Indianapolis, IN, USA

Matthew S. Howard, MSN, RN, CPN, CPEN, CEN
Sigma Theta Tau International Honor Society of Nursing, Indianapolis, IN, USA

Elizabeth A. Madigan, PhD, RN, FAAN
Executive Suite, Sigma Theta Tau International Honor Society of Nursing, Indianapolis, IN, USA

Nurses commonly leave a department or organization because of leadership. This adds to the nursing shortage. Nurse leaders may move into leadership with little to no experience or training in a leadership role. If nurses are not adequately equipped with a foundation in leading quality and safety in the healthcare system this could lead to frustration, turnover, and poor patient outcomes.

Module Objectives:

- Identify the critical dimensions of strategic planning.
- Compare and contrast the attributes of successful and unsuccessful strategic planning initiatives.
- Propose potential sources of evidence for assistance with strategic planning and program development decision making.
- Develop a strategic planning document that reflects the key dimensions of an organization’s vision, mission, and values statements.

STRATEGY

- Research was conducted to develop a core content outline.
- QSEN and AONE competencies acted as a framework for the content outline development and then each section or module of the program was mapped to the appropriate competency.
- Content experts authored presentations and then the Sigma education team developed the content into an interactive learning program.
- Entire program was then peer-reviewed by an expert in nursing leadership, known as a Program Editor.
- This process validated the relevance of the content in current practice and alignment with competencies as the framework.
- Facilitator’s Guide was developed to allow faculty to visualize the program alignment with competencies, content of program, and faculty led discussion questions and activities.
- Learner Development Plan and pre- and post-assessments were developed as part of the program to measure the learner’s growth.

OUTCOMES

- Increase learning and be effective means of providing leadership training.
- Program evaluations reflect 93% of responses agreed that the courses were beneficial.
- 91% of responses said the program would help them in their practice and was an effective learning method.
- Pre/post-assessment is generated from a test bank.
- Utilization of the QSEN and AONE competencies as a framework for an online learning program related to nurse manager knowledge, skills and attitudes is beneficial and innovative in bridging the practice gap.
IMPLICATIONS

- Development of sustainable training methods for nurse leaders is imperative.
- Training offered as asynchronous learner-paced education to effectively utilize education budgets and restrictions.
- Evidence-based, peer-reviewed leadership training that bridges the practice gap is essential to creating equipped leaders.

Title:
Aligning an Online Educational Activity With QSEN Competencies to Bridge the Leadership Practice Gap

Keywords:
QSEN, competencies and online educational activity

References:

Abstract Summary:
The Sigma Theta Tau International Honor Society of Nursing (Sigma) developed an online Nurse Manager Certificate Program (NMCP) that aligned the QSEN competencies and The American Organization of Nurse Executives (AONE) Nurse Manager Competencies. This process allowed for a bridge between academic program curriculum and the practice setting.

Content Outline:
Dimensions of strategic planning
- Clarifying the purpose of an organization
- Focus: goals-based vs issues-based
- Responsiveness to changing environments
- Value, mission, and vision statements
- Strategic planning vs. strategic thinking
- Looking at organizational culture
  - What is organizational culture?
- Strategic orientation model
  - Utilizing the Evidence
    - Weighing the results of conflict
    - Application to nursing practice
  - Aligning departmental and organizational plans Purpose statements
  - Why is a purpose statement needed?
  - What are value statements?
  - Define mission, vision and goal statements and describe their purpose
- Define SWOT analysis
- Describe its purpose, use
- Describe how it is relates to a gap analysis
• Strategic planning vs. strategic thinking
  o Differences and usage
  o Why are they necessary?
• Describe the meaning and importance of planning multiple years in advance
  o How to formulate a strategic vision and mission for your organization

First Primary Presenting Author

Primary Presenting Author
Sarah E. Abel, MSN, RN, CEN, RN, CEN
Sigma Theta Tau International Honor Society of Nursing
Education Department
Education Manager
Indianapolis IN
USA

Professional Experience: 2002-2005 staff and charge nurse, Critical Care and Emergency Department, Daviess Community Hospital, Washington, IN 2005-2011 Staff nurse, charge nurse and manager, Emergency Department, IU Health Bloomington, Bloomington, IN 2011-current Director of Emergency Services and Occupational Medicine, Witham Health Services, Lebanon, IN 2016 President, Emergency Nurses Association Indiana State Council 2015-2016 National Emergency Nurses Association Awards Committee member 2015 President-elect Emergency Nurses Association Indiana State Council 2014-2015- Indiana State Student Relations Co-Chair 2012-2013- Indiana State Secretary 2011-2012- Indiana State Awards Special Interest Group Founder and Chair 2009-2013 Indiana State Membership Co-Chair 2011-2012 Indiana State Student Relations Co-Chair 2011-2012 Indiana State Secretary 2011-2012- Indiana State Awards Special Interest Group Founder and Chair 2009-2013 Indiana State Membership Co-Chair 2011-President Big Red Roadrunners Chapter 131 2014-2016 "Resume Building and Interview Skills Workshop" presented to Student Nurse Association Chapters throughout the state. 2011-2014 "Professionalism, Professional Organization Involvement, and Interviewing Tips" -presented to Indiana University School of Nursing, Bloomington, IN 2010-2011- "Giving and Receiving Feedback" Instructor-trained 175 Hospital staff in 13 classes, Bloomington, IN

Author Summary: As a staff nurse, charge nurse, manager and now director, Sarah has witnessed strategies that have given insight into useful strategies to sustain an award winning culture. Trained as a Clinical Nurse Specialist and currently serving in an administrative roles gives a unique perspective to bringing evidence to administrative techniques.

Second Author
Matthew S. Howard, MSN, RN, CPN, CPEN, CEN
Sigma Theta Tau International Honor Society of Nursing
Director of Educational Resources
Indianapolis IN
USA

Professional Experience: Matthew Howard is a Sigma member and Director of Educational Resources at Sigma Theta Tau International. He helps provide educational content for members to take advantage of, through continuing nursing education courses, publications, and Sigma events.

Author Summary: Matthew Howard is a Sigma member and Director of Educational Resources at Sigma Theta Tau International. He helps provide educational content for members to take advantage of, through continuing nursing education courses, publications, and Sigma events.

Third Author
Elizabeth A. Madigan, PhD, RN, FAAN
Sigma Theta Tau International Honor Society of Nursing
Executive Suite
CEO
Indianapolis IN
USA
Professional Experience: Dr. Madigan has home healthcare experience in practice, administration and research. She has worked in a number of US home healthcare agencies. She is a health services researcher and currently has a program of research focused on outcomes in home healthcare patients. Madigan is the associate dean for international health, in charge of the WHO Collaborating Center for home care nursing at the Bolton School and has presented and consulted internationally in home healthcare nursing.

Author Summary: Dr. Madigan has home healthcare experience in practice, administration and research. She has worked in a number of US home healthcare agencies. She is a health services researcher and currently has a program of research focused on outcomes in home healthcare patients. Madigan is the CEO Designate of Sigma Theta Tau International, Honor Society of Nursing.